SUN GROVE CHURCH FEELS RIGHT AT Home

Visiting Sun Grove Church today at 2285 Longport Court in Elk Grove, California, it's hard to imagine the dynamic center of worship and community activity any other way. But the church's history might surprise you.

"If ever there was a gym built to be a church, this is it!" Executive Pastor Jay Stevans says. Wait a second. What was that?

Sun Grove Church had been wandering in the desert, so to speak, for a number of years. Sun Grove had migrated from humble beginnings in a warehouse, to a church building that was quickly outgrown, to renting facilities at local high schools. In 2011, the Sun Grove building committee began an exhaustive search for a permanent home. They investigated a former bank, warehouse, even a Harley shop, but none was just right.

Then, quite by accident, they found out a building housing a gym was going into foreclosure. It just might work — the facilities were modern, there was plenty of space, the price might be right.

After scrambling to submit an offer, the committee learned there had been two other, higher bids. Well, it wasn't meant to be after all, they supposed. Several months passed.

Then, on April 1, Sun Grove received a phone call that their bid had moved into first position. This was no April Fool's joke — incredibly, Sun Grove was back in the running. However, utilizing the space would require a zoning change.

The building committee met with city officials on a Friday, and were told to give up. There was no chance the building could be re-zoned. Once again, however, things turned in favor of Sun Grove. City officials called back the following Monday saying they'd been thinking it over all weekend, and it just might work after all.

"We have a building, but we're not a building. Sun Grove is made up of people who want to live authentically."

Dave Flaig

SENIOR PASTOR OF SUN GROVE CHURCH

"I just can't get away from the fact that from the beginning to this present time there has been one incredible miracle after another," Pastor Stevans says. "Those miracles have come about because people have cared, people have prayed."

Sun Grove Church members continued to pray, and the city planning commission and city council both approved the project with unanimous votes. Stevans counts the fantastic support and cooperation of the city of Elk Grove as a blessing.

The following year presented a series of financial, legal and practical hurdles. Finally, the church received a wonderful Christmas present on December 23, 2011, with the news that they'd closed escrow.

Sun Grove members then undertook the tremendous job of converting a gym to a meeting space, benefiting from hundreds of volunteer work hours and donations of supplies and furnishings from local businesses, which seemed to "come out of nowhere," Stevans says.

Today Sun Grove Church has transformed from a foreclosed gym to a vibrant meeting center for church members and the community. The additional space allows Sun Grove to hold specialized programs and ministries during the week, which was impossible in a rented space. The church has also opened its doors to host tutoring, classes, health fairs, blood drives, trainings and many more services to benefit the community at large.

Though Sun Grove has found a home, many recognize that the four walls of a building don't make the church.

"We have a building, but we're not a building," Senior Pastor Dave Flaig says. "Sun Grove is made up of people who want to live authentically."

A CLOSER LOOK

Sun Grove Church is a non-denominational church in Elk Grove, California, built around a community of people who have faith in Jesus Christ and in His ability to change us through His grace.

Sun Grove is driven by a three-part mission:

- 1 To be an authentic place to ENCOUNTER GOD
- 2 To help members GROW THROUGH COMMUNITY
- 3 To inspire members to LIVE YOUR CALLING and unleash your unique gifts and talents on the world

On the outside, Sun Grove Church is built of four ordinary, stone walls. But look closer. Inside, there's nothing ordinary about it. Inside is a community of believers and seekers who are bold. They are passionate. They are real. They live their love for God, for each other and for the world. And they invite you to come as you are, step inside and see for yourself.

THE
HOME

WAREHOUSE BEGINNINGS

In 1989, Sun River Church in Rancho Cordova wants to expand to serve Elk Grove. Space is found in a carpet warehouse and nearly 200 friends, seekers, well-wishers and even pets attend the first service. Sun Grove Church is born.

BURSTING AT THE SEAMS

In the 1990's, the church constructs a building to house its growing congregation in the Elk Grove-Florin area.

CHURCH ON THE MOVE

By the late 90's the church has again outgrown its facilities, and decides to sell them and save for a larger space. Sun Grove goes mobile, renting meeting space in area schools. Dedicated volunteers work long hours each Sunday to transport seating and equipment in trailers, set it up and take it down.

PARDON OUR DUST

The time is right to find a permanent home. After an exhaustive search and numerous hurdles, Sun Grove closes the deal on an ideal location and begins converting the space from a gym to a church. Hundreds of volunteer man-hours make the remodel possible.

HOME SWEET HOME

Today, Sun Grove members are proud to meet in their new home at 2285 Longport Court in Elk Grove. The site serves as a vibrant community center as well, hosting blood drives, foster youth and Eagle Scout events, community health screenings and more. S.S.

A CHURCH THAT MAKES YOU GO 'WOO-HOO!'

Boy's reluctance transformed to enthusiasm through church encounter

by Corrie Pelc

Steve Varney of Elk Grove grew up being part of a church. But as he grew older and moved away from his hometown, he had trouble finding a church where he felt at home.

With two young children at home — his son Logan, age 4, and stepson Blake, age 11 — Varney found himself wanting to begin teaching them about God, but was unsure how to start, especially as Logan was so young.

"What can I do to get him on the right path early, instead of waiting until he's 8 or 9 and asking questions?" Varney remembers asking himself.

During this time, Varney met Chad Manbeck, young adult pastor at Sun Grove Church, through work. Varney felt an instant connection to Manbeck and was able to get some suggestions about how to teach his young sons about God. Because of that encounter, he decided to bring his family to Sun Grove.

Varney says their first visit to Sun Grove last Easter Sunday did not go well, as Logan was not interested in attending the Sunday morning children's program, WonderKidz. "He would cry and wouldn't leave our side," Varney recalls. "He would just sit there reserved." It got to the point where Logan insisted he didn't want to go to church, Varney says.

The next week Varney and his wife, Lori, decided to give it one more shot, and despite a small battle, Logan relented and attended WonderKidz. "When we came back to pick him up, he came out of the classroom, pumped his fists in the air and [yelled] 'Woo-hoo, I love church!'" Varney laughs. "I don't know what they did, but every weekend after that he has no problem going. He loves it, he talks about it all the time, he tells his friends about it."

Varney believes Logan's enthusiasm with the church comes from their combination of fun and learning, which helps bring the Bible to life, in addition to the people he's met.

"It's about relationships — he's building relationships with people while learning about how and why he's building those relationships through the words and exercises that they're doing," he adds.

Varney says Logan's affinity for Sun Grove helped draw the rest of the family in, creating a deep relationship. For instance, Blake has questions about what he's taught during Sunday school and asked for an adult Bible. "He wants to be able to read what it actually says and go to chapter and verse versus just reading the stories," Varney says.

Varney adds he and his wife have grown closer to their children through activities such as reading from the Bible together every night. And Varney's relationship with his wife has also deepened through their faith. "I have that other person I can bounce things off of spiritually," he says.

FINDING A Family IN FAITH

Briana Lovett of Elk Grove first began attending Sun Grove Church when she was 12. Having just experienced her parents' divorce, Lovett was going through a tough time. She was referred to Sun Grove by a family friend and decided to give it a try.

Lovett says that through the junior high and, later, high school groups at Sun Grove she found much-needed support.

"It gave me a family," she explains. "[During] that transition time, having a solid group of people that I could depend on was really good."

Lovett's life was transformed by her new relationships, both with Christ and other young people at Sun Grove.

The XLR8 group provides a place for middle-schoolers to find guidance, friendship and fun.

"What I liked most about the groups as a young person was the community. I was surrounded by other people my age who were pursuing Christ and challenging each other in their faith," she says.

Now as a sophomore at Azusa Pacific University, Lovett helps other young people find their way and their faith. She gives back whenever she can, whether handing out frozen treats to the homeless or volunteering as a counselor at the church's summer camp. Her involvement in Sun Grove has left an indelible mark.

"My best and longest-lasting friends, my biggest supporters, biggest encouragers, have come from the community of Sun Grove youth groups," Lovett says. — C.P.

CELEBRATE

AT SUN GROVE

Unique 12-step program for a happier, healthier life

by Amanda Caraway

As a recovering alcoholic, Betsy Chick tried many programs to help her cope with addiction and the pain that led her to drink. After she began attending Sun Grove Church, Chick heard about Celebrate Recovery and attended a meeting at another church. She was so impressed with the program that she asked her pastor to start the program at Sun Grove.

"He said, 'Go right ahead,'" laughed Chick.

That is just what she did. Chick began the Celebrate Recovery program at Sun Grove in 2006. She now leads the ministry in partnership with husband Brian Chick, helping others find a path to recovery.

"I have been amazed at the level of healing, progress and peace that I have seen since we started," Chick says.

"I love seeing others grow and heal and seeing the light return to their eyes. Many of us have childhood hurts that we have not dealt with in the best way."

Betsy Chick

MINISTRY LEADER FOR THE SUN GROVE CHURCH
CELEBRATE RECOVERY PROGRAM

Celebrate Recovery is a program aimed at helping individuals deal with the hurts, habits and hang-ups that keep them from living a healthy and happy life.

"Everyone has hurts from past relationships, hang-ups such as fear or anger and habits that keep us from being healthy," Chick says. "We can look at these experiences as stumbling blocks that hold us back or as stepping stones to a better life."

Chick describes Celebrate Recovery as a Christian 12-step program similar to secular programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous. The difference is that Celebrate Recovery focuses on the transformative power of faith in Jesus and incorporates Biblical truth.

Sun Grove holds recovery meetings every Monday evening in addition to other fellowship events for those in the group. As part of the meetings, attendees work with others who are struggling with similar issues such as substance abuse, anger or sexual integrity.

"Many who attend the meetings feel powerless," Chick says. "It helps to hear the testimonies of those who have healed."

The program provides a safe and supportive place for those who are struggling with recovery. Attendance and all information shared with the group is confidential.

"I love watching others grow and heal and seeing the light return to their eyes," says Chick. "Many of us have childhood hurts that we have not dealt with in the best way."

Attendees are encouraged to find an accountability partner to help them attend meetings and stick with the program, and to call others in the group when they need help.

"The group is a big community and a lot of close friendships develop," Chick says.

Celebrate Recovery is just one example of those who come as they are finding hope and acceptance. According to Senior Pastor Dave Flaig, the real, "imperfect" people at Sun Grove are what make it such an amazing place to seek growth.

"It's people who have lived through some tough experiences in life and have just found that God really meets a lot of their needs in ways that their own self-improvement can't," he says.

WE WILL WORK LIKE IT DEPENDS ON US, AND PRAY LIKE IT DEPENDS ON GOD.

Excellence and creativity honor God and inspire people.
We intentionally depend on prayer and the power of God.

Recovery FOR ALL AGES

Celebrate Recovery at Sun Grove Church is designed to help anyone who is struggling with hurts, habits and hang-ups that are standing in the way of a happy, healthy life. Celebrate Recovery is a 12-step program that incorporates the teachings of the Bible and faith in Jesus as the higher power that helps us heal.

The church offers three age-targeted meetings on Monday evenings that make it possible for the entire family to find recovery together. In addition to the adult program, the church offers Celebration Station for children ages 5 to 12 and The Landing for youth ages 13 to 18. Each group uses the same curriculum for recovery, but the curriculum is revised to be age appropriate for each group. Members receive fellowship, support and understanding from others who are struggling with similar issues. All attendance is confidential and everyone is welcome.

Celebrate Recovery meets Monday nights at Sun Grove Church. For more information, please contact Ministry Leaders Betsy or Brian Chick at celebraterecovery@sungrove.org or 916-691-6818. A.C.

GROWING WITHIN Reaching Out

The 7:22 young adult group seeks to benefit others

by Amanda Caraway

When Jennifer Lind joined members of the 7:22 young adult group for a dinner at Red Robin following their weekly meeting at Sun Grove Church last June, she never guessed the group would have the opportunity to change a life. The group arrived late in the evening and she could tell their server was annoyed to receive a large party near closing.

"He just seemed really down like he was weary and carrying a burden," said Lind. "We wanted to help and my friend Brianna asked if we could pray for him."

"Relationships drive everything for young adults. That is why we focus on relationship building and growing in Christ."

Chad Manbeck

PASTOR OF SPIRITUAL FORMATION AT SUN GROVE CHURCH

The server said he would really appreciate it and Lind could tell that he was truly grateful for the offer. After speaking with him, the group discovered that he was just starting out on his own and he was having difficulty making ends meet. His rent was coming due and he had no idea how he was going to pay it.

In the parking lot, the group decided to put their money together to help the server pay rent. The restaurant was closed and the doors were locked, so the group banged on the doors. When they went inside to give him the money the server seemed shocked that people he didn't even know would help him pay rent.

"The look on his face was so incredible," Lind says. "It was a great night! I love being part of a church where we celebrate an active ministry."

According to Chad Manbeck, the pastor at Sun Grove Church responsible for the young adult ministry, the experience at Red Robin is just one example of the extraordinary work the 7:22 group does.

"Relationships drive everything for young adults," Manbeck says. "That is why we focus on relationship building and growing in Christ."

The 7:22 group, founded last year, has around 125 members who are ages 18 to 30 and from all walks of life, some married and some single. The name of the group comes from the Bible verse 2 Samuel 7:22, which celebrates the greatness of God. The group has named this year the year of increase, endeavoring to increase Christ and his glory and to increase other people. The experience with the server at Red Robin is an example of members reaching out to others.

"We call these experiences increase stories and we share them at the meeting every week," Manbeck says. "These young adults have been under teaching all of their lives. Now they have opportunity to teach others."

Manbeck believes that the increase opportunities help young adults focus on more important things than everyday concerns such as dating and school. The goal is to discover a greater purpose in life, and find partners for that journey of growth.

SHINING THEIR Light IN THE COMMUNITY

Program provides much-needed respite for parents of special-needs kids

by Corrie Pelc

In 2009, Elk Grove resident and Sun Grove Church member Gina Brockway and seven other families were led to share their love of Jesus by shining that love in the community and starting a program that was needed but not yet available.

Brockway says they had heard some statistics that parents with children who have special needs have a high divorce rate. Although none of the Sun Grove families had children with special needs, they understood how stressful raising children can be and were inspired to help affected families in the area.

“We’ve had a couple in tears saying, ‘Thank you so much for doing this. You guys are saving marriages.’”

Gina Brockway

RAYS OF LIGHT RESPITE PROGRAM CO-FOUNDER

Those eight families decided to start the Rays of Light Respite program that provides a three-hour reprieve every other month for families who have kids with special needs. The all-volunteer program is normally held on a Saturday evening.

“We do activities with the kids while the parents get a few free hours of respite to go to a movie, go to dinner — something they normally don’t get to do because of their child’s special needs,” she explains.

Brockway says on average about 30 children attend each Respite program, and each special-needs child is partnered with a volunteer adult or youth. Siblings can also attend the program, even if they do not have special needs. The program is completely free and open to families from the entire community, regardless if they attend Sun Grove Church or not.

Craig and Ladybird Sherman of Elk Grove have benefited from the Respite program for four years. The Shermans have three children — son Campbell, age 12, who has autism; daughter Logan, age 9, who has Williams Syndrome; and son Cole, age 7. Craig Sherman says the program offers his children an opportunity to socialize and focus on having fun.

“It’s a place where we don’t have to worry about them tipping something over or making a mess because that’s encouraged,” he explains. “They’re just expected to have fun — there’s no pressure to perform or anything like that.”

Sherman says he and his wife appreciate and are very grateful for the program.

“It allows us to go out to dinner and then maybe get some things done around the house,” he says. “It lets us just ... go out and spend time together.”

Brockway says since the Respite program started, the feedback from parents has been very positive. For many families, this is the first time they have been able to leave their children with special needs in the care of anyone other than a family member.

The Respite program exemplifies how church members are inspired to help others, their own lives having been transformed by the power of Christ. Brockway is happy to be able to serve.

“The parents just come back so refreshed and we’ve had a couple in tears saying, ‘Thank you so much for doing this. You guys are saving marriages. You don’t realize what a blessing this is,’” she says. “It definitely tugs at your heart.”

WE WILL STOP AT NOTHING TO GIVE
EVERYTHING.

We will respond compassionately to the spiritual and physical needs of our world.

We believe it is better to give generously than to receive.

When Gina Brockway and others recognized a need in the community, they rose to the challenge of meeting it by founding the Rays of Light Respite program.

A CHURCH OF Doers

Sunday service is not the sum total of what attending Sun Grove is all about. Instead, it is a springboard from which to live one’s calling by unleashing one’s unique talents on the world to effect positive change. To that end, church members are very involved in helping and serving the needs of the surrounding area, and are encouraged to take the initiative to reach out to residents of Sacramento through service, outreach and relationship building with neighbors and friends.

Sun Grove Church members are not just hearers of the Word — they are doers of the Word. This can be seen through the church’s numerous partnerships with local nonprofits, giving time, talents or money, to better the lives of those in Elk Grove, Galt and South Sacramento.

SOME OF THE CHURCH’S CURRENT SERVICE OPPORTUNITIES INCLUDE:

- Feeding the homeless through Fishers of Men
- Supporting and lending tutoring services to a local youth outreach program
- PATH (People Assisting the Homeless) through the Elk Grove Food Bank
- Rays of Light Respite program for families with children who have special needs C.P.

SOLAR SUITCASES

SAVE LIVES

Church members work to bring solar power and ministry to remote villages

by Amanda Caraway

A local high school teacher has found a way to bring his love of science and his love of God together to live his unique calling and help save lives in developing countries. Eric Johnson, a Laguna Creek High School physics teacher and member of Sun Grove Church, has been working with his students over the past four years to build solar suitcases to be shipped all over the world.

"I had the opportunity to visit Nigeria on a ministry trip and I saw firsthand the great need that these villagers have," Johnson says.

A solar suitcase is an economical, easy-to-use portable unit that provides solar-generated power for light, mobile communications and medical devices. The cases were originally designed to support obstetrics care in developing countries. However, they can be used for a wide range of medical and humanitarian needs.

"At Sun Grove, all outreach is tailored to who you are and what you bring."

Eric Johnson

SUN GROVE MEMBER AND HIGH SCHOOL PHYSICS TEACHER

"These cases can help midwives deliver babies more safely in small villages where sources of light are not available," Johnson says. "It has been found that just bringing light into the delivery space brings down the infant mortality rate from seven deaths per month to one death per month."

Over the past four years, Johnson and the 120 students in his Green Energy Technology program have made hundreds of cases that have been shipped to 15 developing countries around the world. These include Nigeria, Mexico and India. The cases are sent to hospitals, schoolhouses and orphanages, as well as other humanitarian organizations.

"These cases have been extremely helpful with improving our missionary efforts," Johnson says. "Missionaries now have access to tools such as projecting images, playing audio recordings of sermons and downloading Bible study programs."

The solar suitcases are sent with the missionaries during travel. The missionaries make use of the cases while they are serving and when it is time to come home, they leave the cases in the village with the person or organization that is most likely to share it with the community.

Sun Grove Church members aim to demonstrate the transformative power of Jesus Christ by actively loving others to improve their lives. The efforts of Johnson and his students provide an excellent example of how Sun Grove encourages members to utilize their unique gifts and talents to help the church meet the specific needs of both local and global communities.

Sun Grove first began working with Johnson to create the cases to support the church's missionary work following the 2010 earthquake in Haiti. The church was able to utilize the unique qualifications of Johnson to meet the specific need that arose from that disaster.

"At Sun Grove, all outreach is tailored to who you are and what you bring," Johnson says.

In the church's missionary work, the talents of each team member help determine the goals of each mission. For example, Johnson's mission to Nigeria was focused on education and technology because that is what the members of his group were best able to contribute.

"We want every person to live their unique calling," says Senior Pastor Dave Flaig. "There's nothing more fun than serving God with people you love."

WE ARE SPIRITUAL
CONTRIBUTORS, NOT SPIRITUAL CONSUMERS.

The church does not exist for us.
We are the church and we exist for the world.

Eric Johnson demonstrates how his solar suitcase, a joint effort of local high-schoolers and Sun Grove church members, generates power. Johnson and students have built hundreds of the cases to benefit people in remote, developing areas around the world.

Global OUTREACH

At Sun Grove, the goal is to involve the entire congregation in global outreach efforts. Sun Grove individuals have founded two separate overseas nonprofit organizations. Efforts in places such as India, Nigeria and Kazakhstan include teaching English and building churches, medical clinics and community centers. Everyone is encouraged to share their time, talents or money. With so many ways to serve, it is easy to find that perfect fit.

Members can:

- Join a short-term or long-term mission trip to unreached parts of the world.
- Provide practical assistance to help missionaries gather the resources and equipment they need.
- Contribute financial donations to support Sun Grove's mission work.
- Help create supplies for mission trips.
- Offer prayer and support to someone in another country.
- Send packages and letters to others around the world. A.C.

GET Plugged In

T rue to its mission, Sun Grove Church offers an authentic place to encounter God, a place to grow in community and opportunities to live one's calling by exercising one's unique gifts and talents. Building relationships, with God and others, is at the heart of everything Sun Grove members do.

"It's not about religion. It's about relationships with the living God," says Senior Pastor Dave Flaig.

Again and again, those who attend the ministries and programs at Sun Grove talk about the sense of community and support they've found.

"You can just come as you are ... You don't have to feel like you're walking into a place that has a script. You're warmly welcomed and you quickly find a place to belong, because you do," Flaig says. "Sun Grove is so interested in letting people know that they're important and they're valuable."

New people who visit Sun Grove often have an instant feeling of coming home, without knowing exactly what made the church feel so familiar, Flaig says.

"The intangible thing that they were reaching for was that they were loved right where they are, and that the pretenses of religion are downplayed and the reality of relationship is exalted," he says.

In addition to a welcoming atmosphere, Sunday services feature contemporary music, visual media and a casual environment — dressing up is not required! Sun Grove is also committed to utilizing the latest technology and social media to communicate the good news about Jesus Christ and how lives can be changed.

"It's not your momma's church!" Flaig adds.
